1 Ashley's gown stood out among the metallics of the wedding party. Groomsmen wore silver bow ties and pocket squares to match the bridesmaids. 2 Classic white and pink roses made up the robust bridal bouquet. 3 "By choosing neutral tones, we were able to have dramatic floral arrangements and lots of bling," says Ashley. Smaller centerpieces with branches and hanging votives drew the eye down from the venue's high ceilings. 4 The three tiers of the girly fondant cake were all different flavors. Ashley saved red velvet, Aaron's favorite, for the very top.

5 Ashley and Aaron exited the ceremony to Coldplay's lively "Viva La Vida." 6 Ashley's combination of neutral tones and glamorous details stayed consistent, from head to beaded peep toes. 7 A sweetheart table was set up under the huppah during the reception. Ashley's mother upholstered the chairs specially for the bride and groom.

8 Sequins, embroidery and silver chargers accented the pewter tablecloths.
 9 Aaron's Jewish heritage was incorporated into the ceremony with a huppah and by dancing the hora during the reception. The couple also lit a unity candle during the ceremony. "It was a really nice way to join both families," Ashley says.
